'Coffee in just hair!'

The game of cards ended and table was made ready for dinner. Soon there were spoons and cups. The berries were making noise, ~~and~~ the instrument for making coffee was turning. Hot coffee was then poured out from the silver spouts of coffee-pots into china cups. Belinda and Lord Peter enjoyed hot coffee.

Coffee refreshed the mind. So politicians take it frequently and make themselves wise. Coffee also enabled them to see the future with their half-shut eyes. As Lord Peter took coffee; its vapours rose in his mind and enabled him to chalk out new plan to get the brilliant lock of Belinda. But he should have feared gods, he should have remembered the poor fate of Scylla who was changed into a bird and sent to fly in the air. She had to pay very dearly for plucking the purple hair of Nisus, her father.
